Classroom Events

Things Happening this Week

- The students will begin studying fractions in math using area models.
- The students completed their spelling assessment. I will show you the results at conference time.
- The students wanted to show their national park project to the whole school, so on March 21st the students will be presenting their project at community meeting. Join us! At the end of the week the students will bring home their report or power presentation to practice.
- This week students will start reading novels that are set in the medieval era. The students will have homework that is connected to these novels. Use your child as a reference and a guide for the homework. Each homework will be explained thoroughly in class.
